John Schuyler

The inspiration for my work is both selective and indiscriminate. After the initial influence sparks the beginning of a painting, the piece generally takes on a vision of it's own, a relationship develop between us and occasionally conflicts must be overcome. At other times it's very passionate and I'm in the moment, not questioning the end result, trusting it will take me where it wants to go.

My work has evolved over the years and continues to undergo numerous transformations. The Ultimate intention of my work is to evoke an emotional response. I hope each viewer takes away his or her own strong feeling from my work and that the work somehow resonates on a unconscious level with them.
